

ASTA CHECK SAMPLE PROGRAM

www.astaspice.org

THE PROGRAM

The American Spice Trade Association will provide to its members and to other interested parties a cost effective means for the comparison and the evaluation of their capabilities with regard to both precision and accuracy. The program will maintain commitment to continuous evaluation of necessary and appropriate methods to meet the needs of its membership.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The purpose of the ASTA Check Sample Program is to strengthen laboratory credibility and promote high levels of accuracy within and among laboratories using standard analytical test methods for spices and herbs. The methods, such as ASTA's Official Analytical Methods, provide a uniform way to measure results within and among laboratories.

The ASTA Check Sample Program is designed to evaluate spice laboratories for a common range of analyses and spices that are significant to the spice trade. The program allows individual laboratories to evaluate their performance and set goals for improvement and consistency in analyses.

For 2022 participating labs can select from the following options:

Red Pepper Chemistry - HPLC Heat, ASTA Color, Water Activity
Black Pepper Chemistry - Volatile Oil, Moisture, Piperine, Water Activity
Oregano Chemistry - Total Ash, Acid Insoluble Ash, Moisture, Volatile Oil, Water
Black Pepper Salmonella— 2nd & 4th Quarter Only
Quality Control Chemistry Samples

ASTA check samples are prepared from materials donated by member companies. In order to ensure homogeneity of the samples, all samples are prepared from a single batch for each round of testing.

The ASTA program is administered on a quarterly basis with each laboratory receiving samples, instructions, and data reporting forms with each shipment. All of the studies are open for 30 days. Participants are encouraged to enter their data via a secure on-line data entry website. Online data entry is confirmed through automated emails or laboratories can print confirmations directly from the web site.

The ASTA Check Sample Program is open to both ASTA members and non-members worldwide. As an ASTA program, the usage of ASTA methods is required. Please refer to the ASTA Web site at www.astaspice.org.

Please return by January 24, 2022

Please include ERA account number if you are a returning registrant of the program.
